

Shopify chargeback evidence checklist: Fraudulent or unrecognized

Reason shown on your chargeback: Fraudulent and Unrecognized. The cardholder says they did not authorize the charge, or do not recognize your store name on their statement.

What the bank is deciding

Whether the person who owns the card made, or agreed to, this purchase. It is not mainly about whether the goods arrived.

Do first

- Try to contact the customer first. Shopify's help notes the customer may have forgotten the purchase, or a spouse, friend or family member may have made it.
- If the customer agrees the charge was justified, they should tell their bank they want to drop the chargeback. Still submit your evidence, including the statement where they said they would drop it.

Evidence to gather (tick what you have)

- | |
|---|
| ☐ AVS and CVV results that matched (order risk details) (matters most) |
| ☐ An IP address and country at checkout that fit this customer (matters most) |
| ☐ A 3D Secure authentication record (matters most) |
| ☐ Earlier orders from the same customer, email, address or card that were not disputed (matters most) |
| ☐ Messages where the customer acknowledges the order (matters most) |
| ☐ The billing details the customer entered |
| ☐ Tracking showing delivery to the customer's verified address |
| ☐ The date and time I fulfilled the order |
| ☐ For Unrecognized only: what was bought, the name on the statement, my contact with the customer |

Also check

- Look at the fraud analysis and payment details on the order page. Anything there that shows the real cardholder paid (for example address and security-code checks that matched, 3D Secure, an IP and country that fit the customer, earlier orders on the same card that were not disputed) belongs in the response, but only if your order page shows it.

Mistakes to avoid

- Sending only proof of delivery. It answers a different question from the one the bank is asking.
- Writing that the customer 'clearly authorized' the order when you only have a delivery record.
- Claiming a conversation took place by email or text when you only remember it. Attach it or leave it out.
- Missing the due date. Shopify sends the evidence it has on that date, and nothing can be added after it.

Reminders from Shopify Help

- The due date is 7 to 21 days after the chargeback or inquiry is filed. It shows in your store's timezone, and if no time is shown the deadline is 11:59 PM on that date.
- Shopify automatically collects evidence and sends it to the credit card company on the due date. Adding your own evidence can improve your chances.
- You can edit your evidence at any time before the due date. After you click Submit now you cannot edit it.
- After the due date you cannot submit further evidence. Shopify's help says there are no exceptions.
- The credit card company's review can take up to 75 days after you submit. After the bank or card company rules, Shopify's help says there is no appeal and the decision is final.

Source: Shopify Help Center, read 4 October 2026: Reasons for a chargeback

(<https://help.shopify.com/en/manual/payments/chargebacks/chargeback-reasons>), Responding to chargebacks

(<https://help.shopify.com/en/manual/payments/chargebacks/chargeback-process>). Use the due date shown on your own chargeback in the Shopify admin: some details depend on the card-issuing bank and the card network. Not legal advice, and no response can promise how a bank will decide. Not affiliated with Shopify Inc.

This checklist online: <https://proskillpacks.github.io/shopify/chargebacks/fraudulent/> | Free evidence picker:

<https://proskillpacks.github.io/tools/chargeback-evidence/>